

POM 2014 - Twenty Fifth Annual Conference, Atlanta, Georgia, U.S.A. May 9 – May 12, 2014
Production and Operations Management Society

Invitation to Submit Nominations for Emerging Economies Doctoral Student Award, 2014

Purpose

The Emerging Economies Doctoral Student Award (EEDSA) has been created by the Production and Operations Management Society (POMS) to establish institutional linkages to reach out to future scholars in emerging economies, to encourage their development and to facilitate building connection to POMS. The emerging economies are grouped into the following three regions for the purpose of this award: Africa, Asia-Pacific, and Latin America and Caribbean.

Award

The recipient of the award, a Ph.D. student, will receive a grant to cover travel from abroad to attend the POMS 2014 Conference in Atlanta, Georgia, USA. In addition she/he will get complimentary conference registration, shared room accommodation at the conference hotel and up to U.S. $ 200 to meet incidental expenses in Atlanta. However, the total grant money will not exceed U.S. $ 2,000.

The award committee may give the award to one or more Ph.D. students from each of the three regions Africa, Asia-Pacific, and Latin America and Caribbean. The total money awarded for each region should not exceed U.S. $ 2,000.

Eligibility

To be eligible for the award, the student must be currently enrolled (at the time of the application) in a Ph.D. program in an Operations Management related field in a country with an “emerging economy” from one of the three regions - Africa, Asia-Pacific, and Latin America and Caribbean .

Submission Procedure

An institution (university or corporation) may sponsor a student with a commitment to partially fund the cost of travel from abroad to the U.S.

A Ph.D. student may also apply directly for this award.

1. In either case, the Ph.D. student should submit an abstract as an invited or contributed presentation in the appropriate track of the POMS Atlanta conference.
2. An extended abstract (in pdf format) of at most 5 double-spaced pages of the paper to be presented at the POMS conference and a letter from an official of her/his academic institution stating that she/he is in good standing in her/his Ph.D. program in an Operations Management related field should be e-mailed to the award committee chair, Professor Ann Marucheck (E-mail: Ann_Marucheck@Kenan-flagler.unc.edu) by January 15, 2014.
3. A copy should also be sent to Dr. Sushil Gupta, POMS Executive Director, (poms@fiu.edu).

To receive the award, a Ph.D. student must demonstrate evidence of substantial promise as a scholar in an Operations Management related field. In each region (Africa, Asia- Pacific, Latin America and Caribbean), the award will go to the student who demonstrates the greatest promise as judged by the committee members.

Award Committee Members:

- Ann Marucheck (Chair), Professor of Operations, Kenan – Flagler School, University of North Carolina – Chapel Hill, Chapel Hill, North Carolina, U.S.A.
- Elliot Bendoly, Associate Professor and Caldwell Research Fellow, Goizueta Business School, Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia, , U.S.A
- Vernon Hsu, Professor and Associate Dean, Chinese University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong
- Srinivas (Sri) Talluri, Professor, Michigan State University, Michigan, U.S.A.
- Yih-Long Chang, professor, Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta, U.S.A.

Notification Procedure:

The award committee will notify the winner(s) of the award by March 1, 2014. An award plaque along with a check will be presented to the winner(s) at the POMS Conference in Atlanta (May 9 – 12, 2014).

For More Information

To learn more about the Production and Operations Management Society (POMS) and the award, please go to <http://www.poms.org/>